

NEW TWO-SPEED HYDRAULIC BREAKER FOR HEAVY CARRIERS

Montabert, a world leader in hydraulic breaker technology, has launched the new V3500 model, filling out the Montabert range of automatic two-speed breakers (V1800 / V2500 / V3500 / V4500). The V3500 hydraulic breaker can be mounted on excavators from 35 to 60 tonnes. The V3500 works with an automatic two-speed system designed for high productivity work on homogeneous rock surfaces, including civil engineering applications and secondary breaking in quarries and mines.

The automatic two-speed variation system is exclusive and patented by Montabert. It allows the hammer to automatically select the operating mode depending on the hardness of the material it encounters, resulting in unmatched productivity.

The Montabert V3500 breaker offers all the technological innovations and industry required features that have made the Montabert range of hydraulic breakers the leading products in their market. In common with all other Montabert breakers, the V3500 model offers superior productivity, reliability and durability, a high power to weight ratio, easy maintenance, a long life span and a high resale value.

The V3500 works with a maximum input power of 93 kW. A hydraulic flow of 320 l/min provides a frequency of 850 blows per minute at an operating pressure of 175 bars. The V3500 offers true overflow protection as a standard. The robust, heavy duty housing and large retainer pins allow the V3500 to work with large tools of 175 mm diameter. The standard version of the V3500 breaker is silenced, and it can be equipped with a pressurisation circuit for underwater work.

The Montabert V3500 will be officially presented at Intermat 2012 and offered worldwide through the Montabert network made of more than 150 distributors.
